

ABSTRACT

A timer a light and an optional music source is located on or in a housing of a nightlight assembly. When this assembly is plugged into a source of electric power, the timer is set to a selected time for the light and optional music to remain on. After this selected time has elapsed, the light and music automatically turns off, allowing for sleep in appropriate darkness and silence.